

Hello Child Champion

A Brief Welcome Guide

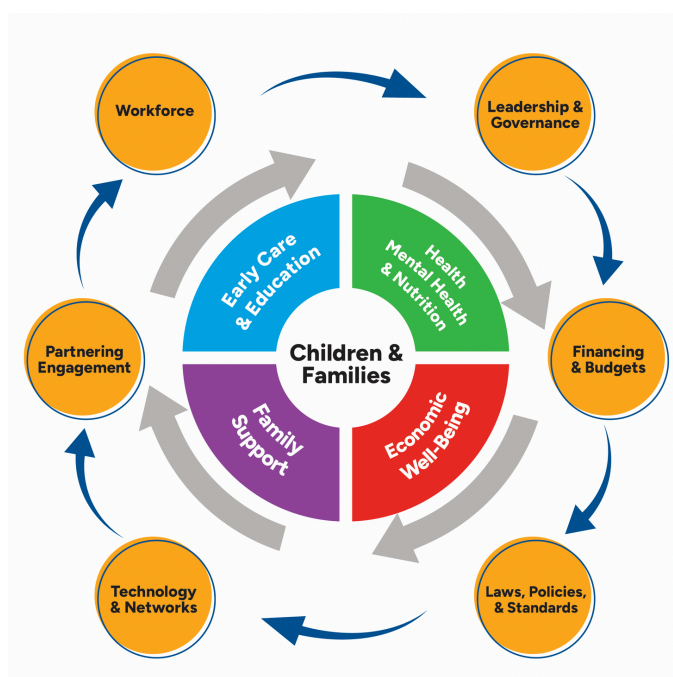

Welcome to the Nevada Early Childhood System!

You are joining a diverse group of business, community, education, government, nonprofit, parents and child care provider representatives that work together to strengthen the coordination and collaboration for child and family services in the state of Nevada.

Who belongs in the EC system?

For systems work to be successful, all sectors of a child's life must be taken into account; the sub-systems within the greater EC system must be in alignment and have an understanding of the impacts each has on the other to optimize success. Members in systems work share the goal of improving opportunities and outcomes for children in Nevada. We share learning, resources and strategies that have proven beneficial.

GETTING STARTED

Early Childhood Advisory Council

The Nevada Early Childhood Advisory Council (ECAC) is responsible for bringing together professionals across early childhood sectors to coordinate services throughout the state.

ECAC QUICK FACTS

On average 2 of every 3 participants on an ECAC call are not voting or appointed members. Parents, early childhood professionals and the public are encouraged to regularly participate.

The ECAC meets every other month.

In addition to the general ECAC meeting, there are 5 subcommittees the public and professionals can attend.

Participating in Public Meetings

A Cheat Sheet

Who does “Open Meeting Law” apply to?

Nevada Open Meeting Law (OML) governs public bodies. A public body is any administrative, advisory, executive, or legislative body of the state or local government. This includes groups who expend, distribute or are supported by tax revenue, or which advise entity’s who expend or distribute tax revenue.

Convening or Meeting

Meetings can be face-to-face or include opportunities in which members can communicate with each other and exercise the group’s decision-making authority. This includes telephone, conference calls, emails, or electronic messaging.

What is “Quorum”?

A quorum is a simple majority of the membership of a public body. Meetings require a majority in order to conduct business.

How does the public participate?

A period of every meeting is set aside for public comment. The body may post reasonable restrictions, including time limits on the speaker. Any practice or policy that discourages or results in preventing public comment is a violation of OML.

Where can I find the meeting information?

The agenda and supporting materials must be made available in a public place, and at the public meeting. Most public meetings hosted virtually will show or share the materials on the screen for participants.
